The Terrace Club at Terramor opens Saturday, Sept. 8 in Temescal Valley.

The 20,000-square-foot clubhouse, which includes a luxurious outdoor pool with cabanas, a saltwater indoor pool, and fitness center, is for the community's 55+ residents. The expansive center also includes tennis courts and bocce ball.

"The inspiration behind the interior of the club is to make it an extension of residents' own homes, giving them an alternative place to relax, entertain, and recharge," Steve Cameron, president of Foremost Companies, said in a statement. "The expansiveness of the club's outdoor area, reinforces the community's emphasis on embracing the region's natural scenery and encouraging an active lifestyle."

Terramor, a multi-generational community south of Corona, will include 1,443 single-family homes across 16 neighborhoods in three phases. Phase one includes six neighborhoods, four of which are specifically dedicated to 55+ buyers. Builders include CalAtlantic Homes A Lennar Company, KB Home, and Del Webb, which are actively selling; and Van Daele Homes, whose neighborhood is under development.
